News Update

A major research award

September 15, 2023

We are excited to announce that our research team has been awarded a major grant from the National Institute of Health (NIH) for our ongoing study on the impact of technology on mental health. This grant will enable us to expand our research and continue to explore the complex relationship between technology and mental well-being.

The funds will be used to support the recruitment of additional participants, the purchase of necessary equipment, and the salaries of our research team. We are grateful to the NIH for recognizing the importance of our work and for providing the resources needed to further our research.

We will continue to update you on the progress of our research and the findings as they become available.